

THE POOR BALD-HEADED MAN
A clerk in a Centerville, Ia., shoe store, whose head was almost bald, was trying on a pair of shoes for one of the female of the species. She was paying more attention to those around her than she was to her foot. When she happened to look down she espied the clerk's bald head, and thinking it was her bare knee, she quickly grabbed her skirt and covered it. Timely assistance on the part of fellow clerk saved the bald one from suffocation.—Green-castle, Mo. Journal.

An enquirer writes us and asks us to explain what love is. Answer—Love is a peculiar thing.

SOME SENTENCE
The grammar tells us there can be no sentence without a verb—but Gee! There's one I know of anyway. It's when the court says "Thirty days."

A possible fortune and the lasting gratitude of all men, awaits the man who can invent something; style will accept in the way of a convenient piece of furniture to sit near the door upon which men's hats and coats can be thrown down and not hang up.

"Well, I guess it's time for me to leave," said the tree as the Spring set in.

HOW TO BE A NUT
Take a palm leaf fan and go out and sit under a beech tree, and you can then imagine that you are at "Palm Beach." But you won't be.

It's queer, thinks Al Abraham how a man can work for twenty years without missing a day from his business, then retire and become a chronic invalid.

Isaac Lester says optimists blow the horn of plenty, while pessimists come out at the little end of the horn.

"You seem to have been in a serious accident."
"Yes," said the bandaged person. "I tried to climb a tree in my motor car."

"What did you do that for?"
"Just to oblige a lady who was driving another car. She wanted to use the road."

The man who drives his car out on a Sunday or a holiday and gets home without having been in a smashup has no right to say that the day of miracles is past.

C. C. Krazier says most business trouble starts from workers who don't think, or thinkers who don't work, or loafers who don't do either.

HARDING CORTEGE TODAY

Dry Squad Battles And Captures Big Still

THOUSANDS WAIT FOR HOURS FOR THE ARRIVAL OF FUNERAL TRAIN

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The train bearing the body of the late President Harding reached here at 10:22 tonight, nine hours late. It was met by President Coolidge and members of the cabinet. Reports that Mrs. Harding has suffered a breakdown gained wide circulation here, preceding the train's arrival, but could not be traced to any authoritative source. Thousands stood for hours at the station waiting for the train to pay tribute to their dead leader. The funeral cortege will take place tomorrow when the body is taken from the White House to the Capitol.

Oil Tanker To Be Taken From Lands End Rocks

The Union Oil tanker Lyman Stewart, which was wrecked on the rocks off Land's End, after being in collision with the Luckenbach freighter Walter A. Luckenbach last October and which is still on the rocks, may be moved in the near future, according to Captain T. P. H. Whitelaw who was given the contract by Lloyds of London to remove the steamer. Captain Whitelaw stated yesterday that he expected to get busy on the task some time within the next month. The tanker has been resting on the rocks at the entrance to San Francisco bay ever since the collision and practically no effort has been made to get the vessel off the rocks or break her up. The wind and breakers have played havoc with the steamer and it is believed the back of the steamer is broken. She has been pounding ever since she was sent on the rocks.

The following remaining members of the G. A. R. were taken in as honorary members at the meeting: Henry Galvin, J. W. Winton, George L. Herriek, C. H. McCausland and O. G. Wells. All of them favored the meeting with interesting talks. Department Chief of Staff Tolson of Alameda was present at the meeting and gave a short talk.

150 Foot Tug Is Purchased By The Santa Fe Railway

The ocean-going steel tug Basford has been purchased from the United States Shipping Board by the Santa Fe Railroad Company in order that the company may meet the requirements for increased facilities. The tug sailed from Galveston on July 15 and reported off San Pedro last Friday by wireless. J. R. Hayden, assistant traffic manager for the Santa Fe, stated that the purchase of the Basford was made necessary by the enormous growth of the freight business handled by the company's lines in the San Francisco bay district. The Basford is 150 feet long and is one of the most powerful vessels of the kind ever brought to the Pacific Coast. The tug was put in dry dock at Galveston before leaving by way of the Panama canal, and is in readiness to be placed immediately in the freight barge towing service of the Santa Fe, covering bay points, Richmond and also connecting with Northwestern Pacific docks.

Outside Eagles To Be Guests Of Pt. Richmond Aerie

Arrangements for the entertainment of Pinole Aerie and the officers of the East Bay Council of Eagles at the next meeting, Tuesday August 14, were made last night at the meeting of Point Richmond Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in W. O. Hall. The house committee, composed of Harry McCluskey, W. E. Frazer, and J. A. Smith, were instructed to prepare a banquet as one of the features of the evening. Badcock are the delegates. After the meeting, refreshments were served by Tom Beard, W. Goldsworthy, and A. Powell, and the whist and carpet bowls tournaments of the lodge were continued. The Sons announce that they are sharpening up their spurs for the coming soccer football season and hope to do good work.

Dates Are Set For Trial Suits In Abatement Act

Dates for trial of three injunction suits brought by District Attorney A. B. Tinning under the abatement provision of the Volstead Act were set yesterday by Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado. Suit against Carlo Rainoldi will be tried on August 17 while actions against Ben Brignone and John W. Martin were filed for hearing on August 20. The three establishments which Tinning seeks to close are all located in Richmond. M. D. Boice of 1120 Nevin Avenue, is back from a month's tour of Idaho and Southern California.

HEAVY PENALTY IS PROVIDED BY FIREARMS LAW NOW IN EFFECT

The new firearms law of California went into effect yesterday. It is aimed particularly at gunmen and automobile bandits. The law regulates the possession, sale, and use of pistols, revolvers and other firearms capable of being concealed on the person. While permitting law-abiding citizens to continue to own firearms for home defense and other legitimate purposes, the law also provides drastic penalties for the use of guns by criminals. It makes the possession of firearms in the commission of a crime punishable by additional sentences on a sliding scale. The first time a bandit is convicted of robbery with a gun, he will be given an added penalty of from 5 to 10 years in prison, the second time from 10 to 15 years, the third time from 15 to 25 years and the fourth time to life imprisonment.

Ample provision is offered under the law, not only to peace officers, but to householders and to persons using firearms for competition or hunting and for legitimate self-defense on outing trips. One of the act's best features is the provision for installing a uniform licensing system for carrying firearms. Licenses now in existence will become inoperative on December 31, 1924. All retail dealers must be licensed and they must keep a duplicate record of all sales of firearms with less than a 12-inch barrel. Display of weapons in the windows of stores is prohibited. Minors under 18 can not purchase firearms.

The new law will result in decreasing robberies, suicides and in homicides, is the opinion of Chief of Police Woods. He said that it would do much toward putting a stop to the activities of armed hold-up men.

Seventy-five percent of homicides are committed with pistols or revolvers or pistols. In 1921, statistics show that there were 9,000 murders in the United States of which 6,500 were committed with firearms.

Persons using guns are potential murderers and are not entitled to probation, suspended sentences or the slightest leniency by the courts. And the new law will do away with probation or suspended sentences for gunmen.

It is no longer safe to drive along country highways because of auto bandits who constitute one of the worst types of criminals. Their depredations have become a serious menace and if they can be legally disarmed, their dangerousness is much lessened.

Pleads Guilty On Liquor Charge

Robert Elquarto, of San Pablo, yesterday paid a fine of $300 when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass at Martinez to a charge of possession of liquor. Elquarto and Peter Dardano were arrested by sheriff's officers three weeks ago. The charge against Dardano was dismissed.

FEDERAL AGENTS HAVE ENCOUNTER WITH RUM MEN NEAR SAUSALITO

SAUSALITO, Aug. 7.—Following a fist fight between four bootleggers and an equal number of federal officers today on Bartlett's island, Richardson bay, three men are held in the Marin county jail at San Rafael on charges of violating the Volstead Act. Those held are Charles Dubois, Martin Foley and Charles Gruver. A fourth member of the bootlegging gang escaped.

Headed by J. H. Cory, the prohibition agents crossed on foot to the island during low tide. Their approach to a new building concealed among the trees and alleged to have been used as a distillery, was halted when Gruver and the man who later escaped, leaped from a tree onto Cory's back. While Cory grappled with them, his assistants seized Dubois and Foley.

Gruver and a second man broke away and fled into the brush with Cory close behind and firing revolver shots, none of which are believed to have taken effect. Cory captured Gruver but the other man either hid in the underbrush or escaped in a boat.

On searching the premises the dry officials discovered a large still of 350 gallons capacity, and a considerable quantity of mash. The officers, with their prisoners, then left for the county jail and while enroute there, apprehended George Miller at Alto, where a 20 gallon still was seized. The officers used Miller's truck to convey the evidence taken at the Bartlett Island plant to San Rafael, Miller being released on his own cognizance.

Members of Civic Center Club On 'Work of The Year'

Straightening out of left over business occupied the greater portion of the meeting of the Civic Center Club yesterday at the home of Mrs. K. A. Cole, 663 Thirtieth street. The session marked the close of the vacation of the club, and was well attended. Discussion of future events came up but no definite action was taken. The next meeting of the club will be on Tuesday, August 21 at a place to be announced later.

Receipts for the last year are listed at $3,633,574 and disbursements as $3,643,806.20.

Friday Is Not Designated As A National Holiday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Although Friday has been made a day of mourning throughout the country, in memory of President Harding it will not be designated as a national holiday, nor will business establishments be asked to close. It was stated that the intention of President Coolidge was not that industry should stop except in the case of business concerns which decide to suspend their activities, voluntarily out of respect for the late chief executive.

Ordinarily, banks must remain open except on legal holidays, but Governor Crisinger of the Federal Reserve Board has asked the board's counsel for an opinion as to whether the unusual circumstances of President Coolidge's proclamation may not give them the privilege of closing on Friday. In states where the state officials have made Friday a legal holiday, the banks will be closed on that day regardless of the action of the board.

Missouri Club To Hold Party On 15th of August

Plans for a party to be held at the Richmond clubhouse on the evening of August 15 were made at the regular business meeting of the Missouri club yesterday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Davidson, 35 Twelfth street. Mrs. J. H. Chandler was named chairman of a committee to take charge of the affair, which will be for members, their families and friends. Each member is asked to bring four guests. Admission will be 25c.

State Delegate Nominations Made

Nomination of delegates to the state convention to be held in Eureka on Sunday, August 26, marked the business meeting held by the American Legion Auxiliary, last night at the home of the president, Mrs. W. A. Vickery, 144 Sixteenth street. Election of the delegates will take place at the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Vickery on Tuesday evening, August 21st.

ATTEND BOARD MEETING
Mrs. J. E. Washburn and Mrs. A. B. Cole spent yesterday in San Francisco at a board meeting of the state officers of the War Mothers. Mrs. Washburn is state vice-president of the War Mothers.

WORK SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF LITTLETON IS IN PROGRESS

Frederick N. Littleton, well known in this county as naturalization examiner in the superior courts, went on trial yesterday in the federal court in San Francisco on a charge of conspiracy and fraud.

Littleton sat in court, ill at ease, watching the selection of a jury. When court adjourned for the day after the examination of 19 talesmen, 12 jurors had been temporarily passed. They will be subjected to peremptory challenges today, but Little, if any, change in the personnel is expected and testimony probably will begin this morning.

The tentative jury comprises: J. D. Eby, machine woodworker, 35 Main street; W. A. Emmett, business man, Belmont; Frank L. Naylor, banker, Berkeley; Richmond A. Harter, wholesale grocer, 820 Steiner street; J. M. Botts, paint dealer, 2164 Hyde street; H. S. Jones, sales manager, Berkeley; Frank W. Ross, banker, 961 Church street; H. B. Racker-Fuller Desk Company, 2435 Gough street; John H. Hughes, retired Marin County; George W. Pringle, dairy machinery business, 62 Clay street; R. B. Macdonald, Macdonald Lumber Company, 1925 Pacific avenue; F. E. Bostwick, banker, Mill Valley.

There were seven peremptory challenges made during the examination four by the prosecution and three by the defense. Friendship for John W. Preston, former United States District Attorney and one of the defense attorneys, disqualified H. W. Sherwood of the Sherwood Company, importers and exporters. It developed that Sherwood and Preston belong to the same club and often play golf together.

C. M. Culver, vice president of the Overland Freight Transfer Company, was also challenged by the government. He lives next door to Littleton in Alameda and both families are friends. He was excused.

Three candidates were initiated by St. Elizabeth Court, Women's Order of Foresters, at a meeting which took place last night in Pythian Castle. Chief Ranger, Mrs. Mattie Moore presided over the ceremonies, which were well attended. Additional candidates will be initiated at a meeting to be held on Tuesday evening, August 21st.

Official Paper of the City of Richmond

THE PASSING OF AN EDITOR

WE know that if President Harding should have had occasion to come into our office, he would have swept the litter of exchanges off the battered old sanctum chair to sit down and have a talk. That was the kind of a man he was. The fact that he was president of the United States made no difference in him as Warren Harding, the country-town editor.

Entirely aside, and—we will add—beyond the fact that he commanded our respect and love as a wise and a calm-thinking leader, he was endeared to his people for his intensely manly and human qualities. He was the sort of president who was "Warren" to his friends and that's the right kind of president, even for such a democracy as this.

He never did a small or mean act in his life. He never broke away from the sturdy relationships with truth, honor, and fair dealing which America still cherishes in its back-washes of society, even though those virtues are much derided in the swifter moving current of urban life.

The heights to which he rose did not dizzy this man, nor did he forget the common touch. He could walk into a print shop and, forgetting the cares of state, take an intelligent interest in the make-up, the writing and the editing of the paper.

The president was a deeply and very simply religious man. He was a neighbor.

He was too unselfish for his own good. At times, he carried his sublime faith in his fellow men a little too far for the best good of his high office. But he was shrewd enough to know it at the time. He was never hoodwinked, and never helpless.

He carried the qualities of a good, American editor into the White House,—the first time in the history of this nation that it has turned to the press for its chief executive.

We are indeed sorry that he is dead and we pray that God may rest his soul. From the contemplation of the great tragedy—we turn again to the state of the nation, and look to the new leader, Calvin Coolidge, whose steady hand on the controls is cause for thanksgiving and self-congratulations.

CONCERNING TAXES

THOSE who have the say about the expenditure of tax moneys frequently speak of the wastefulness of the armies and navies. They wish, as does everyone else, that such national safeguards were unnecessary and that the funds needed for their maintenance might be diverted to serve some other purpose.

But, as a rule, they have very little to say about our standing army of tax collectors and spenders, which is more than five times the size of our army and navy combined. In this connection the recent report of the taxation committee, of the Michigan Bankers' Association, is particularly interesting.

The committee asserts that, in the past 15 years, more than 1,000,000 laws have been passed in the country to control the lives and business activities of our people and that one individual in every 12 of our population is supported by the tax paying public in one way or another. In the state of Michigan, 50 percent of the wealth newly created every year goes to pay for government—state, local, or national.

The United States government pays salaries to 700,000 civilians and the several states have more than twice that number or their payrolls. Add their families, and dependents, and you will understand the surprising totals, and the cost of our governmental house-keeping.

Is it any wonder that tax-free securities are popular and that so many supposedly upright citizens are to be suspected of forgetfulness in the matter of their tax return? Is it any wonder that most business men hold up their hand in horror at the thought of government ownership or operation of public utilities?

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

FROM the presidency of the senate to that of the United States, is the step Calvin Coolidge takes with the demise of Warren G. Harding.

Not many have made this stride, none equipped as Mr. Coolidge with an intimate and inside knowledge of the administration.

Was it kismet that inspired President Harding at the very outset of his term in 1921, to offer his running mate the vice-president, a seat in the cabinet? Did fate itself nudge Coolidge and impel him to make a record of his attendance at cabinet meetings?

Whatever power directed these men the country will benefit by their close observance of the affairs of administration. Mr. Coolidge has been like all other vice-presidents, a figure for fun in that he kept his place and carried out the traditions that the vice-president shall be a personified cypher, and whose name grows cold in the memories of the people and stale on their lips.

His elevation to the presidency, coming with the suddenness of a flash, will find him better measured to assume his duties than any other man in the history, with the one great outstanding exception of Theodore Roosevelt, who was pitched into the highest office on the death of President McKinley, and who was ripe for his task.

Mr. Coolidge is not the great ameliorator that President Harding was. He is not a cordial, genial man, but a terest, as he proved in his long public wonderfully balanced thinker and doer. He is uncompromisingly American. To him, the rights and welfare of the people are paramount to any smaller retiring one. He is not a fellow, but a service. He is one of the quickest-deciding and fastest-acting public men since Colonel Roosevelt, and his thinking is apt to be a little calmer and his acting a little more far-reaching.

The new president may be depended upon in an emergency. He will inherit all of the splendid Harding tradition, and will go into office unfettered by the political debts that a one-term president usually carries out of his campaign. The bills have been paid. If there are any political commodities the new chief finds hampering him, he knows how to get rid of them.

POISON BEVESAGES

FIGURES just published show that there were more fatalities due to drinking contraband liquor in 1922 than there were in the first dry year. It has been proven over and over again that the bootlegger is not scrupulous and that he will sell anything that fetches the price, no matter how injurious it may be. Deaths from alcohol poisoning averaged almost one a day for each working day in 1922, and these deaths were not confined to groundlings, to vagrants or ne'er do wells. Since the liquor was outlawed the poison dispensed as whiskey has killed some of the brightest and best known men in America.

But this seems to make no impression on the people as a whole. To buy a bottle containing contraband liquor from a stranger is a lottery in which the stake is life or death, but the traffic still continues. It is one of the amazing features of the present day that persons of intelligence and conservatism in every other respect will take a long chance on anything that has a kick in it.

Importance Of The Care Of Teeth Of Children Vital

"Tell the public!" That is what Dr. Mustard, health officer of Preston County, W. Va., wants to do. Recently the Preston County department of health announced that the children of the county were short on six-year molars; and the editor of the Preston County Journal dropped around to the health officer's to find out what a six-year molar was. This is how he tells the story:

When we asked the doctor about molars he plunged into a corner and emerged a diagram of the teeth of a six year old child.

"The six-year molars," he said, "are the first permanent teeth a child gets. You, like most parents and some dentists probably think that 'first' applies only to the first milk teeth. This is incorrect.

"Look at this diagram. Start at the space between the middle teeth and count backward. The first five teeth are temporary; the sixth is the first of the permanent teeth; it is called the six-year molar because it comes at about six years of age. Note that there are four of these, one on either side of the lower jaw and two just above them in the upper jaw.

"Didn't know that tooth was permanent did you? Lots of people don't. Persons who don't know, think it is a temporary tooth and let it decay. But it isn't temporary! It doesn't take the place of any temporary tooth, nor does any other tooth ever take its place. When it goes it goes forever."

"Well, we asked, 'won't it be stronger than the temporary teeth and last longer?"

"It may or it may not," answered the doctor. "It is a large tooth, but its upper surface has a lot of pockets which invite decay unless the tooth is kept clean and unless the child is properly fed."

"Properly fed?" we asked.

"Exactly," replied the doctor. Children can't grow as they should unless they are properly fed. Their bones, including their teeth, will be chalky; and chalky teeth decay quickly. Moreover, six-year molars come just when the temporary teeth are decaying. Rot in teeth spreads like rot in a barrel of apples; and the molars, particularly if they are chalky, stand no more chance in a mouth full of rotting teeth than a snowball in July.

"Some of them are allowed to decay along with the temporary teeth and others are pulled by parents or by officious neighbors because they are only milk teeth." Dr. Mustard was waxing indignant.

We were indignant too! "How can we help?" we asked. "The public ought to know about this; and we want to do our share."

"Use your paper," cried the doctor, enthusiastically. "Tell 'em once, tell 'em twice, tell 'em over and over again. Tell each mother to examine her child's mouth and count back to the sixth tooth. Tell 'em if it's decayed to hurry that child to the dentist. Tell 'em that once gone a six-year molar is gone forever; and that these molars are all as important to the mouth as a key stone is to an arch. Tell 'em to allow six-year molars to be pulled even if they are decayed, unless the dentist insists—and to be mighty sure that he is a real dentist."

So we're tellin' them—that is, YOU!!

THE SECRET OF WHY SOME MEN OBTAIN CREDIT, BUT OTHERS CAN'T

Various Meanings of Credit—The Way Character Begets Confidence and Opens the Way to Trust—Thrift and Honesty the Basis of Banking.

The secret of why some men can readily obtain credit, while others are unable to borrow a cent, is disclosed in the present article prepared by the Committee on Public Education of the American Bankers Association. It tells an interesting story of how a man of forty, of good reputation and fair success, was nonplussed by his inability to borrow and had to pass up a good opportunity.

Banks are said to deal in credit. The word "credit" has various meanings. When you deposit money, your account receives "credit" for that amount. When a man borrows money on his note at the bank, he is granted "credit." When a railroad, a manufacturer, a contractor, a farmer, or a government, issues bonds, it uses its "credit." When anyone buys goods without paying cash, at the time of purchase, "credit" is granted. Without credit, our present day business system could not exist.

Credit is possible only where people have confidence in each other, and confidence can exist only where good character exists. Every successful business man looks upon his credit standing as a most valuable asset, and he maintains it by square dealing. To get credit a man must know he is not of good character and not worthy of confidence. Those from whom he would buy refuse to trust him and the banks decline to grant him credit. Then come business failure and a long uphill fight to get on his feet again and live down the past.

More Than Honesty Needed
Honesty is not the only factor involved in credit. For instance, Mr. Jones, a man of forty, of excellent morals, who has enjoyed a fair income for many years, sees an opportunity to purchase a business. He requires financial assistance. He calls on a banker and asks for the necessary credit. The banker asks the nature of the business, what it will cost, and what Mr. Jones has to command in ready money, or other resources, but learns that he has no money or property of his own.

It is clear that Mr. Jones lacks ability to manage his affairs wisely. He has not had enough strength of character to save money by adapting expenses to income, and therefore has not proved that he could make financial progress. Moreover, if men do not invest some of their own money in the business they usually lack incentive and become easily discouraged. It would be unwise for anyone to assume such a financial risk, and Mr. Jones probably would fail to get credit from the bank. He must give up his opportunity to some one else who has saved money.

Banks are public servants, but that does not obligate them to serve those who are unfair in business or lacking in the great principles underlying success. To be known as a careful and thrifty person is the best assurance that the bank will extend financial help when needed.

Many people think that one should shun debt like the measles. They fail to distinguish between wise and unwise debt. It is wise to use credit, that is, go into debt, to buy a home. Such debt encourages thrift. A student may wisely borrow money needed to complete his education. It is an investment that should pay dividends in greater success. Another wise use of credit is borrowing to buy good bonds, such as Liberty Bonds, paying $30 down, borrowing $80 from the bank, and paying it off out of savings.

When to Shun Debt
There are circumstances, however, under which one should never borrow money. Never incur a debt in a speculative venture. OF THE PEOPLE WHO SPECULATE, NINETY-FIVE PER CENT LOSE. Neither should debts be incurred to purchase pleasure-giving possessions. Such debts are millstones around the necks of countless families.

Progressive banks adhere to the same standards they exact of their patrons. Their business methods must be beyond reproach. They exclude business of doubtful reputation and have no part in the feverish struggle for sudden wealth. Well-managed banks are regarded with great respect, and hold a place of ever increasing importance.

Some thoughtless persons criticize banks for not making loans more freely but it must be remembered that a bank's business is to receive deposits as well as to grant loans and it is therefore the trustee of money belonging to others. It must safeguard its depositors' funds and so control them as to be always ready to return them intact upon demand. That requires great care in granting credits.

THE MORTALITY OF SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

The Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts has issued a tabulation made by a mutual savings bank in an average New England town showing that, of the accounts opened during a six months period, 85 to 90 per cent were open at the end of the period. At the end of the next six months about 70 per cent were open. At the end of one year about 64 per cent were open; at the end of 15 months about 55 per cent; at the end of three years about 50 per cent; and then the figure rather steadily declined by 2 to 3 per cent of the original number each year. At the end of ten years about 25 per cent of the accounts were still open. After that the changes were very small, mostly on account of death.

Federal Reserve Copied

Peru is the first country in Latin America to reorganize its banking system according to Federal Reserve principles by the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act of Peru to develop the country's resources along modern lines of financing. Peru's new banking system is modeled after the United States Federal Reserve, with modifications such as banking conditions and general financial situation there require. It provides for the creation of a Federal Reserve Bank in Peru. The directorate of this bank is to be composed of nine members, three of whom are to be designated by the Government and the other six are to be elected by the member banks.

Last Sad Rites Are Held For Two Lindenstruth's

Funeral services honoring the memory of the late Mrs. Eva Lindenstruth and son, A. J. Lindenstruth, were held from Curry's funeral parlors at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with a large gathering of friends and relatives in attendance.

Rev. W. H. Wilson of Berkeley, former rector of St. Edmund's church officiated both at the chapel and the grave. Mrs. Kinstrey gave two vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. George Harlow. The remains were taken to the military cemetery at the Presidio for burial.

Members of W. B. A. Maccahees, of which Mrs. Lindenstruth was a member, attended in a body, and a group of five Boy Scouts of El Cerrito escorted the bodies to the cemetery.

Hoot Gibson In His Latest Film At The Macdonald

Some of the most familiar figures of western screen plays appear in support of Hoot Gibson in his latest Universal vehicle, "Shootin' for Love," which comes to the Macdonald today. Gibson has the role of Duke Travis, a Texas cowboy suffering from shell-shock.

Laura La Plante, who has the feminine lead in the picture, is a popular heroine of many serials of the out of doors and has been featured in Universal two-reel westerns. This is her second leading role in a Gibson feature, having appeared with him in "Dead Game."

Alfred Allen, one of the best known character actors of the screen whose outstanding work was the characterization of Hell Morgan in "Hell Morgan's Girl" and Hellfire Packard in "Man to Man," has the role of Hoot's father, Jim Travis, a hard-fisted old Texas cattleman.

William Welsh, the father in the typical American family in "Over the Hill," and who has long held a steady place in pictures for his realistic characterizations, appears in the production in the role of Mill Randolph, also a grizzled old Texan, who is engaged in a water feud with Travis.

HUGE TOWER RISING ON PRAIRIE SITE GIVES NEBRASKA UNIQUE STATE HOUSE

A LEGISLATIVE MONUMENT

The new capitol under construction at Lincoln, Neb., marks a radical departure from the time-honored design which is nearly uniform in a majority of states. It is distinctly different. Instead of the usual dome, hallowed by custom, a magnificent tower, ornamented with sculptured figures, is the outstanding feature. It is eighty feet square, four hundred feet high, and it is said, will be visible for thirty miles on a clear day. The exterior is of Indiana limestone, which comes all ready cut in blocks numbered and ready to swing into place. The main body of the structure is low—two stories and an attic, including the stone terrace, forms an exact square 27 feet long on each side. The architect is Bertram G. Goodhue, of New York, whose plans won in a national competition. Indiana limestone was selected after investigation and tests lasting over a year, as best combining the elegance and permanence desired. The site is the original ten-acre square selected when the first capitol was erected on the prairie "at a city to be called Lincoln."

"Main Street" Is Billed Today At T. and D. Theater

The members of the cast of "Main Street," the screen adaptation of Sinclair Lewis' novel dealing with Gopher Prairie and its small town folk, all hail from small towns themselves.

It seems that every member of the outfit came from a small town. Take Florence Vidor, who is co-featured with Monte Blue. She came from a small town near Houston, Texas, and in the town was a drug store resembling the one in the picture. Monte Blue hails from Indiana and remembers the cigar store Indian which resembles the one in front of the tobacco shop in the screen version. Even Director Harry Beaumont is a Main Street product, having first seen the light of day in Abilene, Kansas. Julien Josephson, the scenarioist, hails from Rosburg, Oregon, and remarks, "if there is any smaller or more typical small town, I'd like to see it."

"Main Street" is the well-known story of Carol Kennicott and her losing fight with the inhabitants of Gopher Prairie to have them adopt her newly acquired ideas. Others in the cast are Harry Myers, Robert Gordon, Alan Hale, Louise Fazenda, Josephine Crowell, Otis Harlan and Gordon Griffith.

It is a Warner Brothers' classic of the screen and will be played at the Richmond T. & D. Theater today and tomorrow.

"No, and it never will. You're a dear, Marie, for trying to help me make this old rag presentable, but I don't believe it can be done."

"Well, it won't look like it was straight from Paris, if that's what you want, but we can improve it a lot over what it was."

"I should hope so. It has been a wreck for months. That awful gash that I tore in the skirt when I caught it can't be mended and I know it. Why waste your time? I will throw it in the rag bag and stay home."

"You will not stay home. The idea! My dear, the whole party would

"Oh, I can do the ordering all right. That doesn't mean that I have to be there."

"Well, you do have to be there and you know it. The idea! Listen. I have an idea. Chuck the old dress. I know you think you can't afford a new one, but I think I can prove to you that you can. Cherry's at 515 13th street have such lovely little dresses. They have a heap of style and are priced remarkably low during their clearance sale. And what will interest you is that they allow one six months to pay. ## MIAMI LURES LEADING PICTURE STARS; HIALEAH THREATENS HOLLYWOOD'S SUPREMACY

When you go to the movies now and see your favorite screen star making love under a sheltering palm in the south seas or being dragged about on some desert island, the chances are ten to one that the picture has been made in Miami, Florida.

There has been a big pilgrimage of picture stars to Miami in the last year. The absence of fog there insures "shooting" pictures every day in the year, and nowhere else except in Miami's latitude is to be found the royal palm tree, so essential to tropical "atmosphere."

Screen stars, who are pretty temperamental anyhow, don't relish repairing to a real desert island any more than do their directors. As

Miami, however, which is rapidly becoming a motion picture center, they have found that a few hours journey takes them into tropical jungles, while at hand on the beach is found the most up-to-date type of high society. Beautiful winter residences of millionaires, stunning girls, and all the trappings of the rich are to be found all around, and with the Miami society colony at polo, yachting and golf, there is no lack of atmosphere or background.

In an hour by motor boat the cameras may be clicking off a scene on a "pirate island" amid tropical beauty and thrilling surroundings. That Miami's popularity threatens Hollywood's supremacy is shown by the number of motion picture stars who have "worked" at Miami. Some of these are Constance and Norma Talmadge, Elsie Ferguson, Alice Brady, Bebe Daniels, Billie Burke, Anita Stewart, Alice Terry, Theda Bara, Mae Murray, Irene Castle, Corinne Griffith, Nita Naldi, Ruby de Remer, and scores of others less well known.

David Wark Griffith, Rex Ingram and other producers are using Miami "locations," and a mammoth motion picture studio has been built with every up-to-date appliance, which the producer finds at his fingers' ends on arrival. Many movie stars live at Hialeah, Miami's motion picture suburb. Hialeah promises to become as well known as Hollywood, without, perhaps, a few of Hollywood's features, Miami's hope.

Better Rubbers on the Bedspread Than Street Clothes in The Parlor

The mere thought of sitting about the house in street clothes, of bringing the tailor made dress that has swept the dusty streets in contact with the delicacies of her boudoir and drawing room is as repugnant to the average Frenchwoman as putting muddy rubbers on a taffeta bedspread would be to her American sister. She changes immediately to a filmy negligee as soon as she reaches her room.

It is a custom worth imitating. For although tea gowns and negligees are much spoken of in American literature they have, in the past, been worn little in American homes. However, according to the dispatches from Paris, they are to assume an important place in the wardrobe of a well dressed woman from now on.

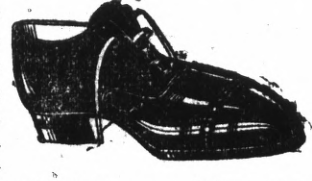

The mere description of these most delightful garments is enough to make one's mouth water. This one is of sea-foam green Crepe Chenette from the South Manchester looms, trimmed with bands and a medallion of orchid colored lace. The foundation is straight with the Egyptian fullness of pleats at the front. The overdrapery is joined to the under-slip only by the V of lace at the neck. It is caught up under lace on each arm, falling to the waist in front, but sweeping almost to the hem in back.

A rather queenly arrangement of the orchid lace makes the boudoir cap.

Games This Week
Wednesday—Refinery vs. All Standards.
Thursday—Barrel House vs. Mechanics.

With the last week's play of the Twilight League at hand, interest of the fans is centered on the contest between the league-leading Refiners and the All Standards, to be played this afternoon at the First street lot. A victory for the Refiners will give them the 1923 championship, while a defeat for Garvin's outfit will give the Mechanics a chance to tie up the race by beating the lowly Barrel House club in tomorrow's game.

It may be remembered that the All Standards defeated the Mechanics in their last meeting, the beating coming at a time when the Mechanics had a slight lead over their rivals, the Refiners. The All Standards would like nothing better than to spoil the leaders' chances of coping the championship, and can be counted upon to play their hardest to turn the trick.

Lefty Cochran, who has been in reserve by Manager Garvin, will be sent to the mound against the All Standards, and the star southpaw never was in better form. Gene Kersten seems to be the only hope for the All Standards and will likely expose Cochran on the hilltop.

If the Refiners succeed in downing the All Standards, tonight, not much importance will be attached to the affair between the Mechanics and Barrel House tomorrow. On the other hand, if the All Standards spring a surprise and beat the Refiners, a good sized crowd will doubtless be on hand tomorrow to see the Mechanics deadlock the race by trimming the Barrel House.

A record crowd is expected to pack the stands at the First street ball park next Sunday afternoon when the Pierce Giants and Sacramento Colored Giants clash in a return game for the colored championship of Northern California. The Pierce Giants bested the colored terrors from the capitol city in a game here several months ago before a monster crowd.

Extra features next Sunday will be jazz selections between innings and a field meet in which various members of the two colored teams will compete. The events on the program for the field meet will include a hundred-yard dash, time contest for circling bases, accurate throwing contest, fumble hitting contest and long distance throwing contest.

Mitch Walker, Oakland high school flash, who is ranked as one of the leading sprinters of the state, will compete in the hundred-yard dash and will show the fans some fast stepping. The judges for the various events will be Howard French, president of the Twilight League and Pete Bryant.

Local fans will get their first glimpse at the Standard Oil All Stars when they cross bats with the Home Office team of San Francisco on next Saturday afternoon at the First street park. The contest will be the first of a three-game series between the two teams, other games being scheduled for August 18 and 25. All three games will be played here.

The showing made by the various candidates for the All Star team will determine the players to be sent against the El Segundo All Stars in the annual series. Tickets for the series with the Home Office are selling fast and big crowds are anticipated. Tickets good for the entire series are selling for one dollar apiece.

The Thompson Cigar Store nine, fast local juvenile outfit, defeated the Vallejo Tigers, 2 to 0, in a fast fourteen-inning game Sunday afternoon at Vallejo. McNally, pitching for the locals, twirled brilliant ball and was accorded good support by his teammates.

The cigar boys lined up as follows: Glum, 2b; De Baer, ss; La Meg, c; Johnson, lf; McNally, p; Sath, cf; Peters, 1b; L. Savin, rf; Grey, 3b.

Costa county is now represented by two runners in the big classic. Gordon Higgins of 37 Terrace avenue, Point Richmond, is the other county runner entered in the annual road race. Little is known of the Martinez boy other than that he has gone into intensive training for the grind. Higgins has been training for several months and promises to be in first-class shape when the start's gun sends the runners on their way around the lake.

Emmett Daley, third sacker of the Mechanics, is leaving next Monday on a week's hunting trip to Mendocino county. Emmett has oiled up his trusty rifle and is all set to bring back a buck or two.

Herbert Patterson, crack local bowler, is leaving today for Los Angeles to make his future home.

Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

Alameda, California, June 23, 1923.

Last winter I suffered with terrible rheumatic pains in my back and legs. At night the agony prevented me from sleeping. My bladder and kidneys also bothered me and I was miserable in the extreme. No treatment afforded me any relief until I began to take the FONG WAN HERBS. After having taken them for about eight weeks, I was completely cured and have had no pain since. I am now free from all my former complaints.

A few months ago my husband was troubled with indigestion and a sore stomach. He was unable for some months to retain his food. He took the FONG WAN HERBS for only one week and he has felt well ever since. About the middle of April, 1923, my daughter's foot became swollen and painful. A big cancer began to form in it and the pain became so severe that she could not sleep for weeks. We had a physician attending her, but the pain instead of subsiding extended to her knee. There was evidence that her kidneys and bladder were also in bad condition. Finally, we consulted our former herbalist, Fong Wan. After having taken the first package of his herbs, which I cooked for her to drink, my daughter slept all night. After three weeks of her to drink, my daughter was able to go back to school with her slipper on. The swelling has entirely gone. Had it not been for Fong Wan's skill, her foot might have been cut off. Because of gratitude for health regained, my husband joins me in signing this testimonial.

Abatement Is Issued Against The Valley House

Granting the plea of District Attorney A. B. Tinning, Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado yesterday issued an order closing the "Valley House," for one year under the abatement provision of the Volstead Act. The "Valley House," located on the Franklin Canyon Highway just outside Martinez limits, is the first establishment in the immediate vicinity of Martinez to be closed. The suit was directed against Mrs. Annie Nulty as owner and Bert Terry as the operator.

Terry's whereabouts are unknown, officers alleging that he fled the city when it became known a contempt charge was to be placed against him for alleged violation of a restraining order preventing sale of liquor from the premises during the pendency of the abatement suit.

Hoover To Make Study of Problems Of Transportation

A comprehensive investigation of all factors bearing on adequate transportation of agricultural products by rail and boat has just been started by the Department of Commerce under the personal supervision of Herbert C. Hoover. The personal of the staff which will tackle the problem is almost complete, and the work has already begun. This investigation is being undertaken as a result of a request from a special transportation committee appointed by President George E. F. Farrand of the Agricultural Legislative Committee at the suggestion of Ralph P. Merritt, Managing Director of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers.

At a recent meeting with Secretary Hoover in San Francisco the policies of the investigation were outlined and it was decided it should embrace the entire Pacific Coast. Following the meeting Merritt, who is Chairman of the Committee, said: "The farmers again face serious transportation difficulties similar to those suffered in recent years, and the future is uncertain. It is important that the farmers, the business men, the carriers, and in fact everyone should know as nearly as possible just what is the future prospect of getting agricultural products to market promptly, and this is what we hope to accomplish by the investigation which is now under way."

France Presents Painting to National Lutheran Council

"CHRIST ON THE GALILEAN HILLS AT DAWN"
M. Chas. Barret, Consul General for France, making the presentation. Dr. J. A. Morehead and Dr. F. B. Knobel receive the painting for the National Lutheran Council.

As a dedication of appreciation of the service the National Lutheran Council of America has rendered in the after-war period of reconstruction in France, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of France, through Bishop Henri Bach and Count Paul de Pourtales, has presented to the Council an original canvas of J. Edle Reid, "Christ on the Galilean Hills at Dawn."

The canvas hung all through the war period in the room of the parish house of St. Jean's Lutheran Church, used as a soldier's rest for the American and French Lutheran soldiers, and maintained by the National Lutheran Commission for Soldiers' and Sailors' Welfare. The gift is presented as a memorial to the late Dr. Lauritz Larsen, President of the National Lutheran Council.

The presentation was officially made at 437 Fifth Avenue, New York, on Friday, June 29th, M. Chas. Barret, Consul General for France, representing the French people and the French Lutherans, and Dr. John A. Morehead, Executive Director of National Lutheran Council, receiving it in the name of the Americans. The letter of presentation made the gift in the following terms: "The Synodical Commission wishing to express in a tangible manner the gratitude of the Lutheran churches of France to the Lutheran Council of America for the cordial interest which it has shown to them during and since the war, has decided to offer them this picture, hoping that it may find a suitable place in America. . . . It has decorated lately the large hall which belongs to St. Jean's Church, and which during the war was used as a soldiers' rest. As Dr. Larsen saw it there and greatly admired it, the Synodical Commission would be glad that this gift should be associated with his name."
